NURSES GAVE LIVES FOR SOLDIERS

Could Have Escaped From Sinking Hospital Ship.

(Special to The Herald)
London, Nov. 10.—A score of heroic nurses on the hospital ship Anflia which was sunk by a mine in the English Channel, gave up their lives that others might be saved. Following the explosion these nurses could have escaped but they remained to help the wounded soldiers into the boats and willingly died to save their charges. The sinking of the Anflia has caused great apprehension as it indicates that the Germans have again planted mines in the channel.

ANCONA VICTIMS BEING EXAMINED

Held Until Italian Government Can Get Story.

(Special to The Herald)
Naples, Nov. 18.—Forty passengers and many of the sailors who survived the sinking of the liner Ancona, arrived here from Tunis this afternoon, but were held on board their steamer while government commissioners conducted an investigation as to the destruction of the Ancona and the rescue work carried on by the crew.

Verdict of Prof. Whitney of Harvard University After Examination of Stom- ach--Morning Session Disposes of Many Witnesses

The trial of Mrs. Mary A. Burns for the murder of her husband Frank A. Burns was resumed in superior court at ten o'clock sharp this morning and the principal witness of the session was Dr. William F. Whitney, curator of the Harvard Medical school. He was shown by Attorney General Tuttle the cover and seal of the jar which contained the stomach of Frank A. Burns and he identified the same. He stated that his analysis of the contents of the jar showed that there was a large quantity of cyanide of potassium, a fatal dose having been taken. Dr. Whitney stated that in his opinion Burns' death was caused by poisoning from cyanide of potassium.

When court was resumed this morning at ten o'clock, the cross examination of Dr. Fred Fernald of Nottingham was commenced by Col. John H. Bartlett.

He testified that he treated several members of the Davis family but their family physician was Dr. Abraham Mitchell of Hingham.

Dr. John G. M. Knowlton of Exeter, assistant medical referee of Rockingham county testified to being called to the so-called Walker house in Nottingham on December 22, when I arrived I went into the room where Mrs. Burns was and asked her concerning the death of her husband. I later viewed the body as it lay on the floor. It was later removed to the kitchen where an autopsy was performed. We found a chronic condition of the valves of the heart. The stomach was removed, sealed up in a jar and sent to Dr. William F. Whitney of Harvard Medical school.

Dr. Knowlton was shown the cap of the jar and identified the seal and his handwriting on the same.

The stomach was sent to Dr. Whitney as there was indications of poisoning.

He died of cyanide potassium poisoning.

Mrs. Burns said she got up about 4 to go to work. He took a drink and threw the bottle out of the window. He could drink and not show it. He came back to the bed and said, Mary I feel sick. I called the people in the other room. We had this but nothing of a serious nature.

Mrs. Burns sat quietly and spoke in her natural tone of voice. She answered my questions and did not appear to be agitated in the least.

Dr. Herbert L. Taylor of Portsmouth testified to being called to attend Mrs. Burns at the county jail on December 27 and on subsequent occasions. From my general observation I concluded that she was sane. To the best of my knowledge she is sane.

On cross examination by Col. Bartlett.

For several reasons I felt it my duty to go into the question of Mrs. Burns' sanity. I asked her if she heard voices, a species of insanity. She said no. I do not think an insane person will admit he or she is insane.

Mrs. Burns said she did not hear or see anything unusual. I have given Mrs. Burns drugs during her stay in jail. There is a manifestation of hysteria in her makeup. The spasms, headaches and insomnia are indications of this. She was very much depressed when she came into the jail. She had melancholy.

ENTENTE POWERS TO FORCE GREECE

Developments in Balkans Forcing Their Hand--Bulgaria Making Steady Gains

(Special to The Herald)
London, Nov. 18.—As fresh victories for the Teutonic allies in Serbia are announced, the Entente powers have decided upon strenuous measures to force Greece to show her hand. The outstanding developments in the Balkans within the past 24 hours, both military and diplomatic, embrace four different propositions which are forcing the Entente powers to take the necessary measures to force Greece to declare war on the side of the allies. The points are: First, Anglo-French committee meeting in Paris decided to take the steps necessary to force Greece into the war. Second, a strong Bulgarian army which captured Ploiești in southern Serbia is marching on Monastir and the Anglo-French and Serbian forces are retreating before it. Third, after a fight which lasted sixteen days the Bulgarian army of 50,000 men, largely officered by Germans, have captured Babuna Pass west of the Vardar valley, and are moving south on Velea. Fourth, Lord Kitchener, British secretary of war, is reported to have arrived at the Dardanelles.

RIOTING OVER NEW PRIEST Poughkeepsie Mob Wants Old Pastor Back and No Other.

(Special to The Herald)
Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Nov. 18.—Rioting occurred here today as a result of the removal of Rev. Fr. Nicola Pavone, former pastor of the Church of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel. A mob marched to the church this morning and nailed up the doors of that edifice, and the rectory, preventing the new pastor, the Rev. Fr. Laill, from saying mass. Placards bearing the following inscription were nailed to the church, "We want Fr. Pavone back."

MAY BE QUIET AT NAVY YARDS

Bids for Two Battleships Higher Than Estimates.

Washington, Nov. 17.—Because of the apparent failure of private bidders to keep their proposals within the $7,300,000 limit set by congress for the hulls and machinery of battleships 13 and 14 bids for which were opened today at the navy department, construction of both may be undertaken at government yards.

The New York and Philadelphia government plans submitted estimates of less than $7,000,000 each for ships propelled with the combination steam and electric drive to be used in the superdreadnought building at the New York yard.

These were the lowest bids, and the same yards also submitted the lowest figures for ships equipped with Parsons steam turbines, the buses of all but one of the private bids. The Mare Island yard with an estimate of $7,113,156 for a turbine ship was the next lowest.

The lowest private bid was that of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, which submitted four alternate proposals. Each was made under stipulated modifications to the department's specifications, which apparently would bring the total cost far above the $7,300,000 maximum.

The bids of the other two private bidders, the New York Shipbuilding Company and the Newport News Shipbuilding Company, also proposed modifications and a careful study will be necessary before the exact cost of the ships can be determined under each bid.

Secretary Daniels was unwilling to say tonight what course he would follow should the private bids be outside the limits set by congress. It is understood, however, that an attempt will be made to induce the ship companies to reduce their figures before it is definitely to give the work to the navy yards. The secretary made it clear that more government yards for battleship building regardless of the final decision on pending bills.

While the department's specifications called for bids on turbine driven ships navy officials indicated tonight that there was no disposition to await trial of the California's electric machinery before installing this radical departure in propelling plants in other new ships. Recent additional tests of the electric drive on the coiler Jupiter have convinced the department's experts that it is not only cheaper to install, but cheaper in operation. No private bidder has ever presented figures on this type of ship.

Bids for armor for the new ships also opened today showed little increase in price since the last contracts were awarded. The Carnegie Company was low bidder for the first class armor for both ships, at $425 per ton.

The Phoenix Sewing Bee was held with Mrs. Fred Stacy this afternoon. On Friday evening in Grange Hall.

at seven o'clock will be held a "Father and Sons" banquet under the auspices of the Kittery Y. M. C. A. The object of this meeting is to nourish the spirit of fellowship among the men and boys in this community. The banquet is absolutely free; no money will be asked for it any time during the evening. All men and boys over ten years are cordially invited to attend. Come and spend a social evening together. Get acquainted with each other and be paid. It is fine that the men of this community took an interest in the young menhood of the town and now is a good time to start in and get acquainted. Boys, bring your fathers; fathers, bring your sons. The principal speaker of the evening will be Mr. Edwin K. Jordan, general manager of the B. C. Jordan estate of Alfred, and chairman of the York County Y. M. C. A. executive committee. There will also be several local speakers. Following the banquet a session of the evening study classes will be held. Instructions will be present and all students are requested to attend this meeting so that the classes may be formed. It should be stated, however, that a man does not necessarily have to be a father to attend this banquet for any man may attend.

A special Thanksgiving dinner will be served the hotel guests and invited guests at the Piscataqua House on the evening of November 25 under the auspices of the social committee of the Kittery Y. M. C. A. of which Mr. Frederick W. Mahy is chairman, with the co-operation of the hotel management, Mr. and Mrs. Greenwood. A special menu will be served and the dining hall will be decorated. Fruit, flowers and cigars are to be sent in by the townspeople. Following the social a musical and literary entertainment will be given. The men of the hotel are busily engaged in preparing the program which promises to be a fine one. The management has installed a piano especially for the occasion. The idea is to endeavor to make the day as pleasant as possible for those men who will be unable to pass Thanksgiving at their various homes. Among the speakers and invited guests of the evening will be Hon. Horace Mitchell, Senator Aaron B. Cole, George D. Boulter, Alexander Bennett, County Y. M. C. A. Secretary, C. F. Hosmer, Fred W. Mahy, Charles B. Vassall, Herman F. Windrich, Dr. Eldridge, Rev. C. J. Yeomans, and Rev. William M. Forgrave.

The addresses will be followed by a travel talk by Albert Mahy, nicely illustrated by stereopticon views from photos taken by the lecturer.

A public mass meeting for men and older boys of this and neighboring communities will be held at a o'clock Sunday afternoon, Nov. 21 in Wentworth Hall, under the auspices of the local Y. M. C. A. Music and addresses will be given by Rev. A. W. Barnard of Boise, Idaho. It is hoped that the meeting may be largely attended.

LABOR MEN INDOPSE DICK LAW

A. F. of L. at Annual Convention Want Citizen Soldiers.

San Francisco, Nov. 17.—Unanimous endorsement of the Dick military law, certain provisions of which provide for the regulation and reorganization of the National Guard, was given by the American Federation of Labor at its convention today. This action was taken in considering the report of the executive council on the law, the question having been referred to the committee on international relations at the Philadelphia convention. The executive council's report was adopted in full. In part it says:

"We think it can be safely and emphatically stated that only a small percentage of the American people favor the maintenance of a large standing army. We express our belief in the need of a small standing army to be supplemented by citizen soldiers, democratically organized and controlled, so as to prevent either the small standing army or the larger supplements and its units to be used for or by any special privileged class, either at home or abroad."

A dispute of several years' standing between the International Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen and the International Union of Steam Engineers was brought up and at the suggestion of the firemen who objected to the engineers taking in firemen as apprentices. As at previous conventions of recent years, the executive council recommended that the two unions endeavor to work out an amicable adjustment.

The question of an international union of janitors, elevator operators, elevator starters, porters, scrubwomen, window washers and kindred occupations was referred to the executive council with power to call a convention in Chicago next January at which the members of the various locals will act. After this meeting, if the council sees fit, a charter will be granted the international union so organized.

Resolutions appealing to every union worker in the United States to contribute voluntarily his wages for one hour to the relief of the Danbury haters whose homes and bank accounts are jeopardized as a result of labor troubles were adopted today.

FEARS DISORDER AT NASHUA

Authorities Preparing for Trouble When the Mills Reopen.

Nashua, Nov. 17.—Fear that violence may result from carrying out the announced plan of the Nashua cotton mills of opening their gates next Monday morning is general in Nashua, following the statement of the mill agents published this afternoon. Although the strike leaders are doing all in their power to prevent the workers from interfering with the opening of the mills they admit that they may not be able to restrain all the 2000 strikers who will probably gather about the gates.

That the mill authorities expect some trouble is evidenced, it is thought, by the fact that a new schedule of working hours was incorporated in the mills' announcement of opening. The workers will be dismissed at 4 p. m. and will thus be given an opportunity of getting to their homes before dark. It is planned to depend upon the militia, which still remains at the mill for the safeguarding of the mill property and gates, while more than 100 special policemen, recently equipped by the department at a cost of $2000 will escort the workers to and from their homes.

The number of militia at the Nashua company's mill has been reduced in the last two weeks from more than 200 to not more than a few score. This force of soldiers however, should be able to protect the mill entrances in case of attempted disorder.

The announcement of the opening of the mills came as no surprise. The machinery at the Nashua Company has recently been overhauled and in addition there has been the fact that all efforts of the state labor commission to find some method of mediation have been rejected by one side or the other.

Why Pay Extra for Dried-Up Tobacco?

That's what you do when you buy chopped-up tobacco in tins, bags or foil. Real tobacco flavor depends upon the leaf being preserved in its natural state, possible only by pressing the leaves into plug form and keeping it in by covering it with a natural leaf wrapper. The natural flavor and strength of tobacco escape when cut or granulated.

Take a Plug of Sickle that is even thoroughly dried out so that when you whittle it off it crumbles into dust, but it will burn and smoke smooth and cool as it has all of its original tobacco flavor preserved, unevaporated in Plug Form.

Whittling a pipeful is little trouble, amply repaid in both quality and quantity. Try this experiment and judge for yourself.

BURNS DIED FROM CYANIDE OF POTASSIUM

amined by Counsel Bartlett at the time and stated that she had not seen her sister since she had been arrested, nor had she spoken to her in the court although she had been there all day Tuesday and Wednesday. She said that although Mrs. Burns had written to her to visit her while in jail she had not done so nor had she bothered to answer the letter. She stated that she had not spoken to some of the members of her family for some time. In her testimony Mrs. DeMerritt also said that she had heard Mary say to her that if Burns did not move away from the Webb's within three weeks that she would fix him. She was on the stand for a longer time than any witness called in the case so far and she underwent a terrific cross examination from Mr. Bartlett. To many of the questions asked her answer was, "I can't remember." She was by far the most important witness for the state yet introduced.

Dr. Dolloff testified to Mrs. Burns' sanity.

The first witness called at the opening of the session after the noon recess was Dr. Charles H. Dolloff, assistant to the superintendent of the State Hospital in Concord. Dr. Dolloff qualified as an expert on sanity, having had 350 of 400 patients under his care while at the hospital. In his direct examination he merely stated that Mrs. Burns appeared to him to be sane while at the hospital.

Dr. Dolloff was cross examined at some length by Col. Bartlett for the defense. He stated that the only time he had been in direct contact with the patient was at the staff conference which lasted for more than an hour, the entire time being taken up in the study of her case. He stated that she was present at this conference and that she told the story of her husband's death as follows: She had been asked how her husband secured the poison and Mrs. Burns said that she had bought the cyanide for herself, intending to commit suicide, that it was mixed with gin and was at the foot of the bed in her handbag. She said that the first she knew of his taking it was when she heard him calling her name and saying that he was sick and had drunk out of a bottle. That she saw the bag open and the bottle missing and she knew that he had taken the poison.

Mr. Bartlett asked, "Did she tell this story willingly or reluctantly?"

A—She told it with perfect willingness.

Q—Did she tell it to others that you know of?

A—Yes, it is a matter of record.

Q—Was that the only version of her story?

A—Yes.

Q—Did she tell it as though she had been told not to tell any other story or not to talk about it?

A—She seemed perfectly willing to tell it.

Q—You say that she was sane at the time?

A—She seemed rational at that time.

Liquor Purchased on Monday

Judge Guptill called Plummer DeMerritt to the stand and he testified that he had purchased two bottles of liquor for Mrs. Burns at her request on the Monday before Burns' death. He said that she called to him while he was passing the Corn Morrison house, she standing in the doorway of the barn which is connected with the house. He said that he went up to her, that she gave him the money and asked him to get her a half pint of whiskey and a half pint of gin at the hotel and if she wasn't at Morrison's when he returned to leave it at the Walker house where she would be.

Mr. DeMerritt told of buying the liquor and returning with it to her, that the bottles were not wrapped up and that she grabbed a piece of paper from the barn floor with which she wrapped them and said to him, "God, aren't they wrapped up?" Mr. DeMerritt then said that he went directly to his home which is two miles distant.

In cross examination Mr. DeMerritt said that he had done a similar errand once before in the summer of 1914 when he had purchased her a bottle of gin. He stated that it was some time between 9.30 and 10.30 on Monday when she called him, that she didn't appear to make it any secret, that she didn't tell him not to tell any one. He stated that it had already begun to snow at that time. He said that he did not see Burns that day.

William F. Watson of Nottingham, owner of the Watson store, was then called by Judge Guptill. He stated in his direct testimony that Mrs. Burns came to his store in the afternoon of Monday and asked him to telephone to Raymond to a Mr. Welsh for a wagon to take her away in the morning. He said that he thought that he did the telephoning for her. He said that Burns came to the store in the evening and bought some mittens, that Burns appeared all right and didn't appear as though he had been drinking.

He was cross questioned by Mr. Bartlett. He again said that he thought that he did the phoning for Mrs. Burns and that he was quite certain that it was in the morning that she wanted the carriage to come for her. Asked if Mr. Welsh would testify that it was a woman who talked to him would he alter his statement, Mr. Watson said that he was quite certain that he did the talking. He stated that Burns did not come across the road with Mrs. Burns as he was standing in the door and looking out when she came in and she was alone. He said that when Burns came in in the evening for the mittens he offered a $5.00 bill in payment and that he had no change. Burns saying that he would pay for them in the morning. Asked about the time of Mrs. Burns visit to the store he said that it was just before dark.

Thomas E. Fernald, selectman of the town, was called by the state and testified to being called to the Walker house and meeting Mrs. Burns after her husband had died. He said that she told him that Burns had drunk something out of a bottle and had gone to the door when she had drunk out of a bottle. That she saw the bag open and the bottle missing and she knew that he had taken the poison.

Mr. Bartlett asked, "Did she tell this story willingly or reluctantly?"

A—She told it with perfect willingness.

Q—Did she tell it to others that you know of?

A—Yes, it is a matter of record.

Q—Was that the only version of her story?

A—Yes.

Q—Did she tell it as though she had been told not to tell any other story or not to talk about it?

A—She seemed perfectly willing to tell it.

Q—You say that she was sane at the time?

A—She seemed rational at that time.

Liquor Purchased on Monday

Judge Guptill called Plummer DeMerritt to the stand and he testified that he had purchased two bottles of liquor for Mrs. Burns at her request on the Monday before Burns' death. He said that she called to him while he was passing the Corn Morrison house, she standing in the doorway of the barn which is connected with the house. He said that he went up to her, that she gave him the money and asked him to get her a half pint of whiskey and a half pint of gin at the hotel and if she wasn't at Morrison's when he returned to leave it at the Walker house where she would be.

Mr. DeMerritt told of buying the liquor and returning with it to her, that the bottles were not wrapped up and that she grabbed a piece of paper from the barn floor with which she wrapped them and said to him, "God, aren't they wrapped up?" Mr. DeMerritt then said that he went directly to his home which is two miles distant.

In cross examination Mr. DeMerritt said that he had done a similar errand once before in the summer of 1914 when he had purchased her a bottle of gin. He stated that it was some time between 9.30 and 10.30 on Monday when she called him, that she didn't appear to make it any secret, that she didn't tell him not to tell any one. He stated that it had already begun to snow at that time. He said that he did not see Burns that day.

William F. Watson of Nottingham, owner of the Watson store, was then called by Judge Guptill. He stated in his direct testimony that Mrs. Burns came to his store in the afternoon of Monday and asked him to telephone to Raymond to a Mr. Welsh for a wagon to take her away in the morning. He said that he thought that he did the telephoning for her. He said that Burns came to the store in the evening and bought some mittens, that Burns appeared all right and didn't appear as though he had been drinking.

He was cross questioned by Mr. Bartlett. He again said that he thought that he did the phoning for Mrs. Burns and that he was quite certain that it was in the morning that she wanted the carriage to come for her. Asked if Mr. Welsh would testify that it was a woman who talked to him would he alter his statement, Mr. Watson said that he was quite certain that he did the talking. CROSS, FEVERISH CHILD IS BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED

Look, Mother! If tongue is coated give "California Syrup of Figs."

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "Fruit Laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeiters sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

whose husband had just died. He said that she never said anything to him about her intention of killing herself or Burns.

Damaging Evidence to Defense

Elmira H. DeMerritt, wife of Lewis DeMerritt, was called by the state and gave testimony that was sensational in the extreme, practically swearing away the life of her sister Mary. Her testimony was by far the most important for the state's case so far submitted as it brought out a statement of a threat to "fix Burns" if he did not give up living with the Webb's. She also stated that Mrs. Burns had said at one time that if their father and a sister had not committed suicide that she would do so.

Mrs. DeMerritt stated that until she met her sister in Nottingham in the summer of 1914 she had not seen her for two years or more when she was living in Concord with her first husband and she had visited her there. She said that she first met her in Nottingham at a social at Nottingham Center and had been introduced to Burns that evening by Mrs. Burns. At that time, Mrs. DeMerritt said, the Burns were living at Mrs. Gove's. She said that she did not visit her while she was with Mrs. Gove.

Came to Live With Her.

In October, she said, Mr. and Mrs. Burns came to her home to live after moving from Webb's place. While living at the Webb's she said that Mary often came to see her and frequently came at dinner time to eat with her. She said that she came to see her sometimes two or three times a day and often stayed the entire day with her. She said that their relations were friendly during the entire summer.

Mrs. DeMerritt testified that after a time she had to tell the Burns that she could no longer have them there as Mrs. Burns acted jealous of her husband and used profane language to him. She said that she had two children, aged 11 and 6.

Q—What was her attitude towards Mr. Burns?

A—I don't know.

Q—Was Mrs. Burns profane to you?

A—No. Only to Mr. Burns.

Q—Did you speak with Mr. Burns during the next two weeks?

A—No. I saw him almost every day as he was passing the house but didn't speak to him.

Q—Have you spoken to Mary since she was arrested?

A—No.

Q—Have you been to see her since she was in jail?

A—No.

At this point Mrs. Burns and her mother and sister began to cry.

Q—Have you recognized her since you have been in court?

A—Yes I recognized her.

Q—You mean you have spoken to her?

A—No. I haven't been near her to talk to her.

Q—Did you say "Hello Mary" to her?

A—No.

Q—What do you mean when you say you recognized her?

A—I mean that I have seen her here.

Q—You mean you know she is here?

A—Yes.

Q—Aren't you able to walk inside the raft to speak to her?

A—Yes. I think I can walk.

Q—You were in Portsmouth last evening and didn't go to the jail to see her?

A—No.

Q—What were you doing?

A—I was enjoying myself.

Q—And your sister in jail?

A—Yes.

A—She was very jealous of him.

Q—At times was she very affectionate towards him?

A—I shouldn't call it affection.

Q—Did you ever see her sitting on his lap and kissing him in a silly manner?

A—I saw her in his lap once but I wouldn't say that she was silly.

She testified that Mrs. Burns left on Dec. 7 and went to Webb's place and Mrs. DeMerritt went with them as far as Raymond where Mrs. Burns took the train. She said that Mrs. Burns came back again on Saturday. "Did she go to the hotel?" she was asked by Mr. Guptill. "I don't know," she said.

Q—Did Mr. Burns go with her?

A—I couldn't say.

Q—When did she go away again?

A—On Monday.

Q—Where did she say she was going?

A—To Laconia.

Q—Did she say for what purpose?

A—No.

Q—How did she go?

A—Mrs. Morrison drove her over to Raymond.

Q—What did she say about Burns?

A—She came to my house and said, she would give him three weeks to leave Webb's or she would fix him.

Q—When did you see her again?

A—On Monday before Burns' trial.

Q—Where?

A—At my house.

Q—Did you talk about Burns?

A—She said, "I have phoned to him four times this morning. I want him to live a room at the hotel. I want to see him once more. I want to spend one more night with him. I don't think he will do it. I am afraid that he is going to run away."

Q—How did she act?

A—She seemed excited.

Q—Did you see her again?

A—Yes, after Burns' trial I saw her at the Walker house.

Q—Have you talked with her since?

A—I have not talked with her since.

Grilling Cross Examination

Mrs. DeMerritt was then turned over to the defense for cross-examination. Mr. Bartlett asked her the question:

Q—When did you last speak to Mary?

A—Between 1.00 and 2.00 o'clock on Monday.

Q—Was there any profanity?

A—No. There were no unkind words between us.

Q—How long was Mrs. Burns with you that day?

A—About ten minutes.

Q—It might have been less, say five minutes?

A—Between five and ten minutes, nearer ten.

Q—What other conversation did you have?

A—We didn't have any.

Q—Wasn't there something said about a trunk?

A—She told me to put her clock from one trunk into the other.

Q—She couldn't sit and talk for ten minutes and only say what you say she did.

A—She didn't sit. I told her to sit down but she would get up and walk back and forth between the chair and the door. She seemed excited.

Q—When did you order her out of the house?

A—I ordered Mr. and Mrs. Burns out on the Saturday before Dec. 7.

Q—What did you tell Mr. Burns you were putting him out for?

A—He didn't ask. I put them out because she was profane.

Q—As a matter of fact wasn't it Mrs. Burns and not Mr. Burns that you wanted to leave your house?

A—I told them that I could not keep them any longer.

Q—Was Mrs. Burns profane to you?

A—No. Only to Mr. Burns.

Q—Did you speak with Mr. Burns during the next two weeks?

A—No. I saw him almost every day as he was passing the house but didn't speak to him.

Q—Have you spoken to Mary since she was arrested?

A—No.

Q—Have you been to see her since she was in jail?

A—No.

At this point Mrs. Burns and her mother and sister began to cry.

Q—Have you recognized her since you have been in court?

A—Yes I recognized her.

Q—You mean you have spoken to her?

A—No. I haven't been near her to talk to her.

Q—Did you say "Hello Mary" to her?

A—No.

Q—What do you mean when you say you recognized her?

A—I mean that I have seen her here.

Q—You mean you know she is here?

A—Yes.

Q—Aren't you able to walk inside the raft to speak to her?

A—Yes. I think I can walk.

Q—You were in Portsmouth last evening and didn't go to the jail to see her?

A—No.

Q—What were you doing?

A—I was enjoying myself.

Q—And your sister in jail?

A—Yes.

To questions Mrs. DeMerritt said that she was in the state's attorney's office Tuesday evening although she wasn't summoned she was asked to go there. She said that after she left an hour or two and that after she left there she went to the hotel. She said she didn't visit the defense attorney's office and she wasn't asked to.

Q—Weren't you angry when Mary went to Rose's house instead of coming to yours?

A—No.

Q—Did you visit her while she was with Rose?

A—Yes.

Q—When did you last speak with Rose?

A—Last summer.

Q—Why did you not visit Rose more?

A Tariff Commission.

A Washington correspondent discusses the tariff question in a way to indicate that public sentiment in favor of the formation of a tariff question from every angle except that of the politicians and those who would profit unduly through the protection of American industries against the competition of cheap foreign labor, and to remove it from a political to a purely business basis.

William Howard Taft advocated the establishment of such a commission when he was president, but Congress was not ready for it at the time. It may not be ready for it now, but the matter is not to be allowed to rest. The United States Chamber of Commerce favors the step and leading business men throughout the country are coming to see that only through some such action can the tariff schedules be properly adjusted and the business of the country be guarded against the injury it suffers from the sweeping changes made from time to time, changes which to a considerable extent are dictated by political rather than business interests.

The plan now proposed provides for a commission of seven members, whose business it shall be to investigate carefully the difference in conditions here and abroad and lay the results before Congress. The object aimed at is to afford such protection as is needed by American industries without creating monopolies, and to take the question out of politics. The tariff is in reality a business question, and the farther it can be removed from politics the better will it be for all concerned.

Many of the leading men of the country are in favor of the proposed change, and when the matter comes before Congress again it will have a backing such as it has never had before. There is a growing feeling that the tariff should be adjusted schedule by schedule as the need arises, rather than to subject business to such general overhauls as there have been in the past, and this change will undoubtedly be made if the business is ever placed in the hands of a commission.

The commission plan for handling the tariff question commends itself to thinking men. It may be unwelcome to interests that desire to falter at the expense of the public, but these are in the great minority and may well be taught that consumers as well as producers are entitled to protection. The commission plan points in the right direction and its development will be watched with interest in every part of the country.

It is claimed that in one New England state last year more than $1,000,000 worth of property was burned through the carelessness of smokers. It would be difficult to estimate exactly the losses caused by smokers, but that it is very heavy everybody knows. Perhaps a proper penalty for the careless handling of matches and cigar stubs might help matters.

There is no limit to the ingenuity of purveyors of liquor in "dry" territory. In Chattanooga, Tenn., a number of men have been indicted for shipping whiskey in collins, and one of the defendants is the police commissioner of the city. And yet Tennessee appears on the temperance map as while as the Pearly Gates.

A young New York man who a few years ago was drawing $5 a week as water boy in a large manufacturing plant has just bought $15,000,000 worth of steel stock. And yet the contention that there is no chance for the poor boy in this country will go right on.

Between now and the first of January 2,000,000 bushels of wheat will be shipped from the port of Boston alone. It was said many years ago that the United States could "bread the world," and it is prepared to back up the statement.

Many postmasters are already making plans for handling the Christmas mail, which is expected to be as large as ever, even if German toys are not coming across the water in the usual volume.

It is announced that a sharp watch is to be kept on the lobbyists in the United States Senate at the next session. Is it suspected that there are liable to be opportunities for some fat picking?

Germany and Great Britain both are now backing the United States—Germany when Uncle Sam is after Great Britain, and the latter when he is after the Kaiser.

Boston is trembling in the face of a bean famine. Hamlet with Hamlet left out would be a treat compared with Boston without beans.

Almost time for the fattened turkey and thanks for the benefits which are mixed with and far outweigh the evils of the times.

CURRENT OPINION

Training Boys to Meet
Emergencies Fits Them
For Life Work.

People are beginning to realize that to be ready for all the emergencies of life is not only sound policy for the boy or man, but for the community.

The Boy Scouts of America may be distinguished from other boys in uniform by the campaign hats. They do not drill with firearms. Instead they receive the training given to every soldier, but which most business men lack. They learn to stand and walk properly. Their young muscles are hardened by carefully chosen physical exercise so that at any time they can withstand a long walk or march. Furthermore, every boy scout knows what to do in case of sudden illness or accident.

He must be able to prepare his own meals and erect his own shelter; he must be able to communicate with others from a distance by means of a signal code.—By Charles L. Pollard, Executive Deputy Scout Commissioner, New York City.

IF IT WAS YOURS, WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

Great Outcry Being Made Over Death of Poor, Defective Baby.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—The Hollinger baby died late tonight at the German-American hospital.

The Hollinger baby, a defective mite, whose mother on professional advice, decided it should not undergo an operation, which probably would save its life, between life and death at the German-American hospital today.

Meanwhile, the subject of sacrificing the unprincipled spark of life in the infant, that it might not grow up a burden to itself and a possible menace to society, was the subject of widespread discussion.

Dr. H. J. Hulseken, on whose advice the mother acted, was visited by many medical men today and telephone calls alternately accused and praised him. He remained unmoved in his conviction that death was the greatest blessing which could be hoped for the infant.

The principal deformities of the baby are the closure of the intestinal tract, paralysis of the nerves of the right side of the face, absence of the right ear, blindness of one eye, and malformation of its shoulders.

Dr. Hulseken, who officiated at the birth, noted the absence of a neck. The brain he found to be only slightly subnormal, but the cranial nerves were absent or undeveloped.

"If he grew up he would be a hopeless cripple and would suffer from fits," said the doctor.

"Would his mind be clear? Would his soul be normally alive? he was asked.

"That I do not know, but the chances are against it."

The questioner cited the case of Howard Smith of Chicago, a supposedly harmless defective, who after reaching the adult stage killed little Hazel Weinstein, for which he was hanged.

Another visitor remarked that Fyodor Dostoevsky, born a defective, well had epileptic fits, developed into a great novelist.

Dr. John B. Murphy, former president of the American Medical Association and physicians and professional men and women including a number of clergymen, generally took sides with Dr. Hulseken. But his critics were just as numerous.

Mrs. Anna Hollinger, the mother, remained steadfast in her belief that death was best for the little one. She has three healthy children and the plight of the condemned one is believed to have been due to an attack of typhoid fever which the mother suffered recently.

The authorities took no action further than to death certificate should be issued until after an investigation by the coroner.

The child was baptized with the name of John, shortly after its death. Mrs. Hollinger was not notified of the death of the baby. Doctor Hulseken deemed it advisable to keep the news from the mother until morning.

NO UNEMPLOYMENT THIS WINTER

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 18.—There will be no winter periods of unemployment in the Empire State henceforth, if plans made here today at a conference of the Mayors of the state and many employment experts go through.

Members attending the conference said that on account of the present trade boom the danger of widespread unemployment this winter is remote; but the lesson of last winter has been taken to heart and the mayors are preparing for the future. They hope to be able to deal with the problem when it occurs.

The mayors propose for one thing, to arrange needed public work so that a special amount of such work will be available in the periods when distress is caused by the idleness of working men.

A badly intoxicated individual was found on State street shortly before 2 o'clock this afternoon and the services of a job wagon were required to convey him to the police station.

Building Speed Boats

By about the first of February six 40-foot sea-going speed boats will be ready for government service if needed. They are being built by a company of wealthy New York and Boston men to be offered to the government in case a necessity arises. Although the naval officials have taken no action the plan is known to Asst. Secretary Franklin D. Roosevelt and he is said to be much pleased.

The boats are being built at Lynn. They will be equipped with defense guns. The cost of each will be $3,000. It is intended by the owners to make them nucleus of a naval reserve fleet.

As soon as finished, the little fleet will be taken on the outside route from Sandy Hook to Delaware Breakwater for the Southern drill grounds of the navy department.

Date of Ball Changed

The date of the grand military ball given by the marine guard of the Southern and the naval prison has been changed from Monday evening, Nov. 29 to Tuesday evening, Nov. 30, in Freeman's Hall.

CALLS FOR AN ARMY OF TEN MILLIONS

Kansas City, Nov. 18.—Charles H. Grasty, European war correspondent and newspaper publisher, has made a call for the arming and training of 10,000,000 American citizens to defend this country from warring nations. In speaking of the subject Mr. Grasty said:

"Need of national preparedness is the lesson we learn from the European war. I am in favor of compulsory military training and a large standing army and navy. They are the only things that can keep this country out of war."

Mr. Grasty attended the University of Missouri and received his first news training in Kansas City.

HAS NEW FOG SIGNAL.

Prof. Webster, After Years of Effort, Perfects Device.

New York, Nov. 17.—Prof. A. G. Webster of Clark University, Worcester, in an address today at the final session of the national Academy of sciences, told of an instrument he had perfected for finding the direction of a fog signal and which, he expects will rob sea travel of one of its greatest terrors.

For years Prof. Webster has experimented with every kind of sound wave and today he told of his work on standardizing sounds for the fog horns and the development of a receiving instrument capable of catching the signals.

The standard sound, which he hopes will be adopted for navigation so far as fog signals are concerned, is formed by means of a tuning fork, arranged so as to hum in a resonator by the passage of an electric current. The receiving instrument consists of conical horns, placed in pairs with the small ends together, and these catch the hum from the signal machine. A glass connected with the receiving apparatus shows by means of light within the direction from which come the signal sounds.

Heretofore, the speaker explained, mariners have not been able to tell within forty-five degrees the direction from which fog signals come.

The disaster in which the Empress of Ireland was sunk in Canada, about two years ago, the speaker pointed out, was due to the pilots on her and the ship with which she collided steering wrongly in a fog. If they had been directed by such an instrument as his receiver, Prof. Webster said, the pilots would have known exactly how to steer and the collision with its attendant loss of lives could have readily been avoided.

PASTOR ACCUSED BY DIVORCEE RESIGNS

Maine Country Parish Shaken By Woman's Startling Charges Against Young Methodist Minister

Auburn, Me., Nov. 17.—While the Rev. J. B. Holt, district superintendent of the Methodist Church Association, is considering the resignation of the Rev. Milton Beckwith, tendered after his arrest last Saturday on serious charges preferred by Mrs. Marela H. Godding, a divorcee of a few weeks, Mrs. Godding is asserting that her attorneys hold a signed statement from Beckwith admitting his guilt, Miss Elizabeth Vosmus, of North Pownal, to whom the young pastor is engaged, is standing by her fiancé and declares she will not release him from their engagement.

The affair is causing a stir in this and surrounding towns. The Auburn Star is publishing what purports to be a portion of the text of the alleged signed statement of Beckwith which, as printed, constitutes a full admission of his alleged relations with Mrs. Godding. It is stated that while Beckwith asserts Mrs. Godding did not make known to him the nature of her position and the charges until last Friday, the so-called signed statement is dated Oct. 29.

It is claimed the statement was drawn up in the presence of three other persons in the office of Mrs. Godding's attorneys, McGillivuddy & Moroy of Lewiston.

The people of this town and of North Pownal, where Beckwith also has a pastorage, are divided on the matter, some staunchly supporting the minister while many others are sceptical. Miss Vosmus is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. S. A. Vosmus of North Pownal. The details of Beckwith's arrest did not become generally known until today. The warrant is said to have been secured by Mrs. Godding last Friday. Because of his inability to find friends to furnish $500 bail for him Saturday night, the pastor remained in a cell all night, but was liberated Sunday in time to preach his sermon in the North Pownal church, where he is also pastor. He had, during his night in the lockup, written his resignation to the stewards of the South Auburn church.

Mrs. Godding, who is young and attractive, secured a divorce three or four weeks ago, alleging desertion. She was also given the custody of her 6-year old son. She lived with the grand parents of her husband. She was not, according to the Rev. Mr. Beckwith, a member of the South Auburn church, though a faithful attendant, and it was in that way that he met her.

The pastor said today it was true he had offered Mrs. Godding $300 to drop the case, but that it was not because he was guilty of the offence the charges him with, but merely to avoid scandal.

"I told her I could not marry her, when she insisted that I should, and she said she would have me arrested unless I did," he continued. "My arrest followed and, of course, I at once offered to release Miss Vosmus from her promise to marry me. She refused."

"If Mrs. Godding pushes the case I shall ask that her divorce be annulled and that the custody of her child be taken from her. It is now pending whether I shall remain pastor of the North Pownal and the West Durham churches."

Miss Vosmus said: "I wish to declare my unwavering faith in Mr. Beckwith."

HOSTESS TO FRIENDS ON BIRTHDAY

GERTRUDE FLYNN GAVE PARTY
AT HER HOME ON HER TENTH ANNIVERSARY.

Miss Gertrude Virginia Flynn gave a party at her home, 120 Richards Avenue, yesterday, from four to six, to twenty of her little friends in honor of her 10th birthday.

The dining room and parlor were prettily decorated with various kinds of cut flowers, and streamers of crepe paper ornamented both rooms.

On the dining room table was a large birthday cake inscribed: Gertrude-1915, which was cut by the young hostess and distributed to the guests.

Music, dancing and all kinds of youthful games were enjoyed by the children.

A dainty collation of ice cream, cookies and fruit punch was served, and all present prior to departing, were given souvenirs of the occasion. The young hostess was the recipient of a number of gifts from her young friends.

END INDIGESTION OR STOMACH PAIN IN FIVE MINUTES

"Pape's Diapepsin" makes sick, sour, gassy stomachs feel fine.

Time it! In five minutes all stomach distress will go. No indigestion, heartburn, sourness or belching of gas, acid, or eructations of undigested food, no dizziness, bloating, foul breath or headache.

Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in regulating upset stomachs. It is the surest, quickest and most certain indigestion remedy in the whole world, and besides it is harmless.

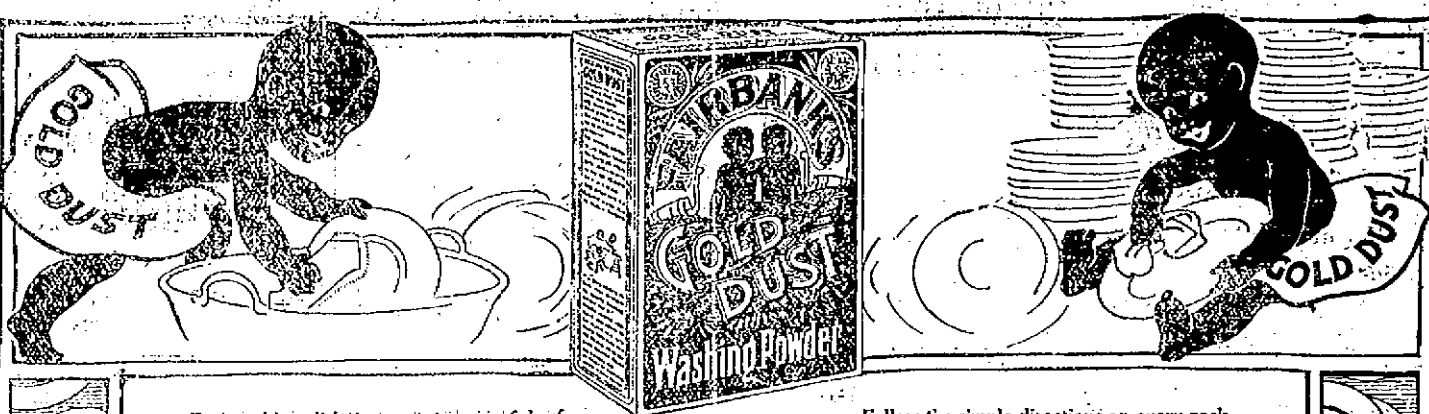

Millions of men and women now eat their favorite foods without fear—they know Pape's Diapepsin will save them from any stomach misery.

Please, for your sake, get a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store and put your stomach right. Don't keep on being miserable—life is too short—you are not here long, so make your stay agreeable. Eat what you like and digest it; enjoy it, without dread of rebellion in the stomach.

Pape's Diapepsin belongs in your home anyway. Should one of the family eat something which don't agree with them, or in case of an attack of indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis or stomach derangement at daytime or during the night, it is handy to give the quickest, surest relief known.

MATTHEWS--HENLEY

Miss Beatrice M. Henley of Brunswick, Me., and E. Curtis Matthews, of this city, treasurer of the Piscataway Savings Bank, were married yesterday afternoon in Brunswick at the home of Mrs. Benjamin Furbish, the bride's aunt. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William De Witt Hyde, D. D., President of Bowdoin College.

Owing to the death last spring of the bride's father, the wedding was a quiet one and witnessed by only the relatives of the contracting parties.

The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Helen Furbish of Brunswick. Charles D. Matthews of Thompsonville Conn., brother of the groom, acted as best man.

Following the nuptials the bridal couple received many hearty felicitations and a wedding repast was served in the dining room.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthews left later on their wedding trip and at its conclusion will reside in the attractive new home on Middle street, built for their occupancy.

The bride is an accomplished and estimable young lady, the daughter of Mrs. Adelaide and the late Jacob J. Henley, the latter having been of the firm of Walker, Steison & Co., of Boston, wholesale dry goods dealers. The home of the family was formerly in Allston, Mass.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Matthews of South street one of the most highly esteemed and popular young men in this city. He is a graduate of the Portsmouth high school and of Bowdoin College.

INTERESTING LECTURE ON EUROPEAN WAR

ALBERT R. WILLIAMS, LATELY RETURNED FROM FRONT, DELIVERED ADDRESS AT ELKS LAST EVENING

At the Elks' Home last evening Albert R. Williams of New York City, Correspondent for the Outlook and the New York Times, delivered an interesting illustrated lecture on the European war. Mr. Williams has only lately returned from Europe and was present at the opening of the war in Belgium, seeing a great deal of the invasion when the start was made and having had considerable opportunity to see the workings of the great German fighting machine.

The lecture was instructive and his view point on much of the situation was novel. Mr. Williams was impressed with the wonderful system used to build the German army and with the way it was handled. He mentioned particularly the uniforms of the Germans, gray-green which served to protect the men as it blended with the landscape and at a few hundred yards made the soldier invisible.

He told of the wonderful guns which hurled shells 12 to 20 miles and of the fearful destructive power, when the first shell fell into Antwerp, killing 500 at one time.

Mr. Williams spoke of the atrocities committed but said that there were good and bad among the soldiers of all the armies and that there was much kindness shown by many. He had many humorous things to tell about, among them his meeting with a young chap who had been in America a few years and inviting him to take a short at some 15 Germans who were hidden in some bushes.

Mr. Williams laid considerable stress on the suffering of the women from the war and said that in his opinion as long as women gave the first intimation of war (men) to the armies they should have a voice in deciding whether there should be war or not. He stated in his close that no war should be declared unless all of the people in a country were in favor of it.

SECRETARY REDFIELD BITTERLY ATTACKED

New York, Nov. 17.—A bitter attack on William C. Redfield, Secretary of Commerce was made here this evening by William H. Barr, president of the National Founders' Association, in his address at the 19th annual convention.

He said Secretary Redfield has shown a violent antagonism to business men and sound business principles. The secretary's attempt to prevent "dumping" here of cheap European goods after the war would be ineffectual, he feared. Mr. Barr said in part:

"Some thoughtful citizens believe that congress should create a commission to determine the qualifications of candidates for places in the cabinet of the President of the United States. This would at least remove from the shoulders of the President the blame for blunders in such selections which may be absolutely unconscious on his part and influenced largely by the candidate's ideas of their own qualifications. The business men of the country, more than any one else today realize the necessity for such a commission. When President Wilson made his selection he exercised either his own judgment or accepted the suggestions of friends, with excellent results in some cases and deplorable results in others."

"This is one department however which was created for a special purpose, and it was the intention of congress in creating it that it should be filled by a man thoroughly familiar with his duties. I refer to the Department of Commerce which is representative of the business and manufacturing interests of this country. Secretary Redfield came into office with pretensions of being a business man, and his own biographical sketch is a full and complete endorsement of that idea. No member of any cabinet or any President has failed so ludicrously to understand his position, or to carry out the plain mandate of the law creating his office and the spirit and intention of those who created it."

"Secretary Redfield apparently brought with him a violent antagonism to business men and sound business principles which he manifested within a very short time by deliberately using his office to prevent the business interests of the country from securing through it any useful administrative act. Instead of being a help to business, Mr. Redfield has become a menace, and today we have not only the business men of the country thoroughly disgusted, but if we dare to take the newspaper accounts at their face value we find the President looking askance at his Secretary of Commerce."

"Men who have paid attention to the economic condition which will exist after the war have been frightened by the possibilities involved and the certainty of a wholesale dumping of cheap European goods in our markets. Even the President of the United States is concerned. Not so the Secretary of Commerce. He apparently visualized the influence of goods, his redundant brain immediately creates a remedy, and he tells us very blandly that he will provide the means to prevent possible competitive disaster to our industries. He will first warn the buyers and sellers that they must not indulge in unfair competition and if this is not effective, he will ask congress to enact a law by which the importer of European goods manufactured at a very low cost, must sell these goods at the same price at which similar American goods are sold. Of course in Mr. Redfield's simple place there is no necessity for determining what goods cost, for considering constitutional rights, international law or commercial necessities. All that is needed in the small primer devoted to the ethics of business is in Redfield.

"The whole situation is so ridiculous that it is pitiable. You, the business men of the country supposed to be represented in the cabinet by a man competent to understand business conditions and necessities are actually represented by a man who is capable of evolving such absurd propositions as I have quoted. Surely you must feel flattered that out of all the business men of the country there has been selected this one man, supposed to combine the nature, wisdom and the business experience of you all. If a youngster in the primary grade of business life, were to adopt the attitude of Secretary Redfield, his career would terminate abruptly."

KILLED BY OWN GUN.

North Salem Young Man Was Working on Gun Which Became Discharged.

Derry, Nov. 17.—A frightful accident happened at North Salem this afternoon at a point known as Cobweb Corner, whereby Frank Wilson, a young man lost his life.

It appears that Wilson and his chum Fred Chase, having a gun, which was in some way discharged, the full charge taking effect in the left side of Wilson's head which was blown away. The victim was the son of Henry Wilson.

Medical Referee Luther G. Dearborn Jr., and Dr. P. A. Tower were summoned, as was also Undertaker C. H. Gordon. No suspicion of foul play in any way attached to Chase, the affair being considered purely accidental.

PORTSMOUTH THEATRE
MUSIC HALL
F. W. HARTFORD, Manager

The feature picture coming to this theatre for Thursday, Friday and Saturday is the big five reel photo-play, "The Flaming Emerald" with Robert Warwick playing the lead.

"The Flaming Emerald" will prove to be as interesting a story as any of the big subjects that have been shown at this popular play house for some time, a story that will grip the audience and hold them to its last foot of film.

GRAFFORT CLUB'S 20TH ANNIVERSARY

Observed With Banquet and Birthday Party--Many Speakers--Musical Program

The twentieth anniversary of the Graffort Club was observed by the members on Wednesday evening in the form of a birthday party and banquet in Freeman's hall and it was a most enjoyable affair.

There were about 125 present, among them a considerable number of the charter members.

A banquet was served and this was followed by addresses and a musical. The menu:

Grape Fruit
"I've never found a viand that could so ally all grief."
Chicken Croquets Green Peas
"Tis I, the early village cock!"
Lobster Salad Rolls
"A man can die but once."
Olives Salted Nuts
Ice Cream Frozen Pudding
"Pray thee, take care."
Assorted Finney Cakes
"A deal of skumble—shamble stuff."
Bon-Bons
Coffee

"Water with berries in it."
Mrs. Helen P. Thayer was the toastmistress and she made a brief talk before introducing the speakers.

A brief history of the club was given by Miss Frances A. Mathes, who took the first ten years and Mrs. Elva P. Sherwood who took the last ten years.

"The Club Today" was handled by Miss Lillian A. Odell, the president, and "The Club of the Future" was ably discussed by Mrs. Mary I. Wood.

Miss Lucie P. Pray told a story and Mrs. Frances N. Searcy spoke on "Our President."

"Our Club House" was the subject of an interesting talk by Miss Martha S. Kimball.

"As Bridget Sees Us," was the title of a little play written by Misses Alice A. Squire and Florence Coleman, and presented by Miss Jessie Wood, Mrs. Martha S. Toole, Mrs. Annie Henry, Miss Frances Squire, Mrs. Thomas A. Noyes, Mrs. Marion Rugg, Mrs. Sadie Carter, Mrs. M. P. Alkon, Miss Helen Lighthouse, Mrs. Oscar Alchet, and Miss Emily Stavers who took the title role of Bridget Graffort. It was a take-off on the club and was thoroughly enjoyed by the members.

"Our Club," was discussed by Mrs. Clara J. L'Amoureux from the suburban standpoint and by Miss Alice M. Muldrum from the city standpoint.

The new Graffort Club song written by Miss Edith G. Brewster was sung for a closing exercise.

THE GRAFFORT SONG

When grassy lane once marked our streets
And the fireside was the home,
A noble dame persuaded men
On higher paths to roam.

Refrain:
So now together strongly linked,
Let Graffort be our cry,
While through unfolding years we
To strive
To hold our standards high.

The thoughts of Bridget Graffort still
Was prized in later days
By earnest women who aspired
To emulate her ways.

Refrain:
That name for uplift, progress, growth,
For twenty years has stood,
Inspiring an increasing band
To worthy womanhood.

During the evening between the talks the following double quartet rendered several selections:

Miss Susan Borthwick, Miss Beatrice Hartford, Miss Madeline Dondore, Miss Jessie Wood, Mrs. Marion Rugg, Miss Jessie Wood, Mrs. S. H. Outwater, Mrs. Weeks.

Miss Beatrice Hartford also rendered a solo, and Miss Frances Squire gave a piano solo.

The arrangements were in charge of the officers of the club:

President, Mrs. Lillian A. Odell; vice president, Mrs. Mabel S. Locke; recording secretary, Mrs. Olive J. Law; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Marion T. Rugg; treasurer, Miss Mabel Junkins; custodian, Mrs. Elva P. Sherwood.

ENJOYED WHIST.

Members of Eureka Club Entertained by Mrs. William F. Tilton.

The members of the Eureka Whist Club were pleasantly entertained on Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. William F. Tilton at her home on Cabot street. After the usual duration of play prizes were awarded as follows: First, to Mrs. Rufus W. Ferguson; second, to Mrs. Benjamin Hard; consolation to Mrs. William Nelson. Refreshments of sandwiches, home made candy, assorted cake, etc., were served by the hostess. The next meeting of the club will be held on Tuesday afternoon next at the home of Mrs. Mary B. Trafton on Cabot street, Mrs. Benjamin Hard being the hostess.

FIRE DEPARTMENT CALLED OUT

By Slight Blaze in Buckley's Bowling Alley.

An alarm of fire at 7.20 o'clock this Thursday morning from Box 37, called the fire department to Buckley's bowling alleys on Islington street. When the department arrived there was a lively blaze in the rear part of the building and four streams of water were poured onto the blaze. The fire was soon extinguished and the loss is placed at about $200. The origin of the fire is a mystery, but it is thought to have been occasioned by a smouldering cigarette butt.

ENJOYED PIG SUPPER.

About sixty members of the P. A. C. gathered at the club house last evening to partake of a roast pig supper with all the "fixins." Two young pigs roasted to a turn and carved by Caterer George Klump. Soon disappeared under the ravenous attacks of the hungry diners. Following was the menu: Roast young pig, boiled ham, mashed potatoes, Hubbard squash, boiled onions, apple sauce, grape jelly, celery, rolls, coffee, cigars.

YACHT CLUB CLAMBAKE.

An indoor clambake, followed by a cabaret will be enjoyed by the members of the Portsmouth Yacht Club this evening at the club house.

OFFICIAL VISITATION

Deputy Master Simes Frink of this city made an official visitation and inspection of Lamprey River Grange at Newmarket on Wednesday evening. The occasion was one of enjoyment for those present.

COLONIAL THEATRE

Home of Refined Vaudeville.
Safety and Quality First.

Picture—"Brute Force"—A. D. W. Griffith production in 2 reels. D. W. Griffith was the man who produced "The Birth of a Nation." You all remember how good that was. Well, this "Brute Force" is as good if not better. It is only in two reels and features those stars such as Mac Marsh and Robert Harron. See them.

ACT—Drawes, Frisco, Hambo. A rollicking comedy novelty, "Fun at the Hottentot Hotel." 2 men and 1 dog. Special scenery.

Picture—Ah, another one of those funny George Ade photoplays with a moral on the end called, "The Fable of 'The Sorrows of the Unemployed'." For Wednesday Only:

ACT—Sylvester and Vance. Man and woman in a singing and talking skit entitled "Get Out of My Theatre." This is a positive hit direct from B. P. Keith's.

Picture—"The Ebony Casket"—Vita-graph Comedy. It contains a big surprise. It brings happiness to one young couple while two rascals only get the laugh. An all star cast.

ACT—Kelley & Wilder & Co. Three women and one man. Vocalists and musicians presenting "Melodies, Past and Present." An act of merit coming direct from New York.

Picture—"Belle of Baregate"—Lubin drama. This one reeler is a romance of the sea coast. A child saved from a wreck is the heroine. A fine picture.

Friday
"THE DREAM SEEKERS"—Kalem 2 parts.

"REMEMBER, WE LEAD, OTHERS FOLLOW."

CHAMPIONSHIP GAME

Much interest is manifested in the football game to be played on Saturday afternoon between Concord and Portsmouth High school teams for the state championship. The game is called at 3 o'clock and there should be a good turnout of our citizens to give the boys all possible encouragement.
